"Oh, he kicked h— out of me; there's no question about that!" Mr. Bentrod added, as his smile broadened.

Mr. Bentrod was testifying in his own behalf in the case for assault and battery against George W. Spiegel. The trouble took place last Saturday on First South street, and grew out of a dispute over the remodeling of a boat. Mr. Spiegel, who is a well known mechanical expert, had fixed the craft up for the Lagoon resort and, according to his own testimony, it worked all right. Mr. Bentrod, it appears, made certain changes in the machinery, alleging that it afterward worked all right, whereas Mr. Spiegel's plan was a failure.

WOMEN SLEEP IN TENTS

Canvas Supplies Temporary Quarters For Female Inmates of County Infirmary.

Superintendent W. L. Jones of the county infirmary is expected in Salt Lake today. Meantime the women who were burned out in Monday's fire will be housed today in tents on the grounds. Some of them were given such shelter yesterday. The rest spent last night in the State street orphazage.

The rebuilding of the main building of the infirmary has not yet been settled upon and probably will not until Mr. Jones has consulted with the county commissioners on the question.

The total insurance on the building and contents was $3,650, which is estimated to cover half the loss. The fact that the walls of the burned building were not sprung at all makes it altogether probable that rebuilding will not prove so expensive as some had thought.
